

ABSTRACT

A system and method for backup data storage and retrieval which does not require a program to be installed on the host computer system. The system and method may operate over a network. A system and method for automatic execution of the backup and restoration, including installation of a recovery operating system, if desired or required, is also provided. A data structure for the optimization of the storage of backup data is also provided.

HOUSTON_1164316415
7036-G99999 05/01/2003